16/62014	A bunkering hose leaked approximately 20mL of fuel to the sea during bunkering activities.	No loss of hydrocarbons to the marine environment within the operational area from refuelling during the drilling program.	No mitigation measures were undertaken based on volume of hydrocarbon release.	Bunkering was suspended immediately, connection investigated and tightened to ensure an effective seal.	██████████ ██████████ and ██████████ ██████████ are to review bulk hose configuration for hydrocarbon transfers and evaluate the type of connections in place. In addition, the length of the bulk hoses will be adjusted to 45m to allow for more movement and to reduce the risk of stress on hose connections. A WECO connection either side of the dry-break coupling was installed. The Recommended Rig Practice was evaluated and now includes the requirement for all hoses to be brought onboard and visually inspected for wear spots, stretch marks, parting of the hose (visible threads) and damage from twisting, prior to each bunkering operation.
